

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

January 11, 2022

Official Release

L-R Brandi Rozelle, Waterloo Library and Kristen Moore, Moore Dirty Boots

WATERLOO LIBRARY RECEIVES COLLECTION OF SUSTAINABILITY & ENVIRONMENTAL BOOKS FROM SENECA MEADOWS

WATERLOO: The Waterloo Library announced today that it recently received a donation of a collection of books focused on environmental sustainability. The books were donated by Seneca Meadows landfill in Seneca Falls.

Two titles to note in the new collection:

Plastic Ocean by Capt. Charles Moore: Have you heard about the Great Pacific Garbage Patch? This is the story of the sea captain's discovery that launched a determined quest to save the oceans.

Mobilizing the Green Imagination by Anthony Weston: The author provides insights into an entirely different and far more inviting ecological vision for the future.

For a complete list of the environmental titles that were donated, please contact the Waterloo Library.

The donation is part of a larger effort, Pathways for Sustainability, developed by Seneca Meadows and Moore Dirty Boots. Seneca Meadows is bringing its values and culture of sustainability to the community through a partnership with Moore Dirty Boots. Lead sustainability educator, Kristen Moore, is bringing sustainability education to local libraries, local scout troops and the local farmer's markets. For information on participating with the Pathways for Sustainability program, contact Seneca Meadows.

###

Waterloo Library

Cyndi Park-Sheils

clpark1866@gmail.com

Moore Dirty Books

Kristen Moore

mooredirtyboots@gmail.com

Seneca Meadows, Inc.

A Waste Connections Company

Mark A. Benjamin

315-539-5624

Mark.benjamin@wasteconnections.com

<http://www.senecameadows.com/>